Outline of Liquor Policy Given By Attorney General Before House Debate on Speech From Throne

After covering a period of eight sessions, drawing seven speakers from the government benches, seven from the liberal and four from the independent side, the debate on the speech from the throne was closed Tuesday afternoon without a division or a dissenting voice, the motion of acceptance proposed on February 3rd, by Donald Cameron, Innisfail, and seconded by J. R. Love, Wainwright, being unanimously endorsed.

Attorney General J. E. Brownlee brought the debate to an end Tuesday with a continuation of his address began Monday evening. Again crowded galleries greeted the minister in the expectation that an outline of proposed policies in connection with the liquor act would be given, but in this Mr. Brownlee flatly disappointed them. He dealt earnestly with the need of adequate enforcement of the liquor laws, and declared that the government would do everything possible in order to effect this enforcement, but stated that the changes thought necessary in the act itself would not be divulged to the house until later in the session.

His very direct intimation of what methods might be adopted was in his opinion that the "strong arm squad," so-called, would be placed at the disposal of the police for the administration of the act itself. In this connection it is recalled that a committee to be appointed by the legislature to inquire into the liquor situation during the last two weeks have mentioned the name of J. E. Brownlee as the name of the inspector to be appointed over the liquor question. It was also up as the probable commissioner of the department in connection with the liquor act. Mr. Brownlee further intimated that the police force would have to bear a large responsibility in the matter of the act's enforcement.

Estimate February 25th
Premier Greenfield announced to the house that the estimates for the year would be brought down February 25th.

Wilton C. McKinn, U. F. A. member for Lac Ste. Anne, was unanimously voted to the position of speaker of the house on the motion of Premier Greenfield.

A bill of Edmundson and Cleary for charter changes was brought forward and now stands ready for consideration by the house. The committee of which George MacLachlan, Penikese, is chairman.

The bill introduced by J. E. Moore, Cochrane, to amend the ordinance relating to the liquor act, was introduced by the house. The bill was introduced by J. E. Moore, Cochrane, to amend the ordinance relating to the liquor act, was introduced by the house.

What's the Distinction?

The Provincial Government proposes to do away with the demonstration farms at Athabasca, St. Paul and other places. The inference is that the farms are not worth their cost, to the pupils attending the agricultural schools in the various districts where they are located. Otherwise to spend money with them would be a retrograde step. While time has been wasted in the past, it is not suggested that the abandonment of the farms is a measure of economy, to be followed by assuming if they were the application of the money saved to the Provincial debt. The intention apparently is to spend the money in some other way.

If three farms, why not all of them, is the question that naturally suggests itself. If these three have not justified their cost in operating expenses, what of those at Athabasca and elsewhere? It is true that the southern part of the province has had a series of unfavorable years, and that the demonstration farms there may do useful work along with the lines in reference to the difficulties the farmers have to contend with. But because conditions in that district are different, it does not follow demonstration farms have no scope for useful service in showing the way to better farming and more satisfactory circumstances for farm families.

Farmers Call For Protection.

The milk producers attending the Provincial dairy convention passed a resolution calling on the Dominion Government to double the tax on butter. At present a tax of three cents per pound is collected at the frontier on butter brought into the Dominion, the receipt asks that it be made five cents per pound. The object of course is to keep New Zealand and other countries out of the British Columbia market and preserve these for the overflow from the dairies of Alberta. A few years ago there were 100 dairymen landed a ship load or so of butter at Vancouver, and sold it at prices which the Alberta producer would not accept. Thus the only presently available outlet for Alberta butter was closed, the export trade stopped, prices sagged, and the milk producer found his revenue shrinking. To the townsfolk in Alberta, and no doubt also in British Columbia, the downward tendency of both butter and milk prices has been welcome, but the man at the other end of the transaction is naturally in a different light. He does not want it to happen again, and to prevent it happening he is calling on the Dominion Government to put a tariff to a point which he thinks would be high enough to shut out these shipments from the other side of the world and keep the British Columbia market open to him only.

Justice Counts.

The Privy Council has decided that the Dominion Government violated the Hague convention does not excuse Britain for seizing German ships in disregard of that convention during the war. Yet, as taken will accordingly be returned, or their owners given compensation for the loss of their ships. The British Government continues to be in the hands of its enemies. Neither an international tribunal nor a preponderant navy is needed to enforce a bill against Britain when justice is on the side of the claimant. Under order of his own supreme court, the British Government cheerfully pays up, even when the aggrieved party is the subject of a treaty-making enemy state. For contrast, has anyone heard of the German supreme court ordering anybody to pay for lost carried off by the British? It is hard to see how the matter comes up at Ottawa the Progressive members will have an interesting time in this call for protection from the Alberta farmers with the

THE COST OF THIRISHING.

There was a considerable variation in threshing rates in different districts and many farmers had been told that the cost of threshing would be 40 cents and some as high as 50 cents. The information that their wheat threshed has nothing to do with the cost of threshing. Some farmers paid less than 25 cents.

a Severe Blow—Calgary at Regina Game May Have Repercussions
Viewing on League Play.

In view of the fact that a defeat at the hands of the Moose Jaw Orphans would put a serious crimp into their chances for the western Canada hockey league tonight, the Eskimos are not taking lightly the hockey game tonight. The game with which they will always do it. In Moose Jaw people realize that their team is due to clinch the Eskimo.

Interest tonight in the Eskimo game is at its height around the arena between Regina and Calgary in the first of the two games. The Eskimos and Moose Jaw are looking for a Friday night the Capitals may very likely be counted out. The Moose Jaw team will give the Eskimos a terrible battle tonight even should they win.

The Eskimos will have their regular lineup on the ice. Moose Jaw will probably be the same as against Calgary Monday night.
